January 2018 President's Corner

It's time to Tweet to the world a milestone has been reached.

It's not record high stock prices, elimination of net neutrality, or another alleged trickle-down tax reform act. No folks. You have suffered under my dubious leadership for a whole year.

What are my remembrances from 2017? I have many, but really only one was completely unexpected.

My daughter expressed interest in learning to ride. As I pondered what wisdom I might offer her, in the misguided, naïve delusion she actually might listen, I reflected on the advice I have gotten from RCB members in my formative, early years, and the track classes I participated in over the years. Here it is:

It's good to warm up the motor and suspension.

It's essential to warm up tires. That small contact patch is all there is between smelling flowers or the inside of a hospital.

It's critically required to warm up your mind and body. Do a short walk, mild exercise or some other physical activity to get the heart moving and joints loosened up. Put personal and work distractions out of your mind. They serve no purpose on a ride. We all love riding, but at the start moderate your excitement, temper your impulses, check your ego, and begin with deliberate care whenever you let out the clutch no matter how familiar the road or confident you may feel.

Once rolling, put all your senses, mind and body into the experience.

It's advice I hope my daughter may follow.

I plan to do so.

Ride well mi amigos.

As a treat for making it through the holidays and into the New Year, there will be a second president's corner this month. Just making sure nothing written by our president goes unpublished.

The following is what should have been published in December.

President's Corner
December 2017

Is it really December?

As I waded through mostly empty Christmas storage bins where Lynell's car used to be parked in the garage, I see my 1993 ATK 605 at the far side of the garage, sadly with cob webs I brushed off. I bought this bike three years ago (could be four) as a winter "project." While the bike did need considerable TLC, I probably could have gotten it running with a new battery and carb cleaning. The fact the front brake and other niceties didn't work was a minor – aaah inconvenience. I actually got about 60-70% of the restoration done when I stupidly injured my back eventually requiring surgery.

Y'all probably are wondering where the hell is this going. Don't worry. I'm not fishing for sympathy. I know there will be none from this group.

Part of me was thinking about what still must be done to finish the bike. Mostly, I was reflecting on the hours already spent tending to the needs of this bike, something I miss.

Around the same time, I read Brook Reams article in the November issue of BMW On magazine about his restoration work on a R100RS. What I was feeling about the work on that old ATK came into focus so I will paraphrase Brook Reams words. This was real work with things that are not influenced by what me or anyone else might say. Working "hard" or fast did not always yield results. Patience, thoughtfulness, creativity and perseverance did provide solutions for those pieces which no longer can be obtained. Becoming completely attentive to the work at hand at a piece-by-piece pace was "hands on therapy." No doubt being able to ride the ATK will be rewarding, but the therapeutic benefits of the work itself is reward enough.

If you, like Brook Reams and me, could benefit from slowing down and emptying your mind of everything except for the tool and part in your hand, take on a project at least until we can ride regularly again in the spring.

I made a commitment to myself to have hands on therapy after the holidays. Hope to see you soon on an ATK.

Happy Holidays? Cheers!

Jack

What's better, after breakfast, than a spirited ride through the beautiful NorCal roads we've been blessed with? Except for special events, the rides are generally 2-3 hours in length, cover 100-200 miles, and end with a lunch at some destination. The rides are generally "spirited" but if we get enough participation, we generally add a second, more relaxed-pace group. Clutch out is 9:00AM or when the monthly meeting ends, whichever is later, and ride sheets are usually distributed prior to departure. Please show up with a full tank of gas.

Check the forum for details of the ride.

Here is a link from our northern club representative Tom Moe. Take a look and see what Montana has to offer. <https://mtbmwriders.org/Newsletters.html>

As always if anyone has something that would like published, travel report, pictures of events, how to articles, etc. Please send them and I will get them published.
